Question : 1 (ENLE27299)

0/1

Question

You have just watched a film that you really enjoyed.
You want to talk about it with your friend who hasn't seen it yet.
Write them a message of 100 to 120 words.

You must:

- give the title of the film and explain why you chose it;
- explain in detail what you liked about it (characters, plot, atmosphere, emotions);
- share the impact it had on you;
- make your friend want to watch it.

Hi,

I just watched a film called Dead Poets Society
, and I really want to tell you about it. I chose to watch it because so many people had recommended it to me over the years.

What I liked most was the main character, Mr. Keating, an English teacher who is funny, kind, and inspiring. The story is about a group of students who learn to think for themselves and follow their dreams, thanks to him. The atmosphere is warm but also quite sad at times, and I felt many different emotions while watching it.

This film really affected me. It made me think about my own life and encouraged me to be braver.

I'm sure you'll love it too!

JUSTIFICATION DE
L'ÉVALUATION :

While the candidate demonstrates good B1 level English with clear communication and appropriate vocabulary, the response significantly exceeds the required word limit of 100-120 words (approximately 165 words). The answer successfully addresses all content requirements: film title with reason for choice, detailed appreciation of characters/plot/atmosphere/emotions, personal impact, and invitation to watch. Grammar and coherence are strong with appropriate connectors. However, the substantial length violation is a critical failure to follow explicit task instructions. At B1 level, respecting word count constraints is essential. The quality of content cannot compensate for this fundamental task requirement breach.

Question

You are writing a message to a friend you haven't seen in a long time.
Write 5 to 7 sentences.

You must:

- greet your friend;
- ask how they are;
- briefly talk about your situation (work, studies or daily life);
- ask at least two questions.

Hello Mary!

How are you? It's been so long since we last talked, and I really miss you. These days, I'm quite busy with work because I have a lot of new projects. I also started going to the gym three times a week, which I really enjoy. What about you, how is your job going? And do you have any plans for the summer holidays?

Correct

+ ÉVALUÉ PAR IA

JUSTIFICATION DE
L'ÉVALUATION :

The candidate's answer meets all required criteria. It contains 6 sentences, appropriate for the 5-7 sentence requirement. The text includes a greeting ('Hello Mary!'), asks about the friend's state ('How are you?'), provides personal information about work and gym activities, and includes two clear questions ('What about you, how is your job going?' and 'do you have any plans for the summer holidays?'). The logical flow is coherent and natural. The language complexity is appropriate for A2 level, using simple present tense, basic vocabulary, and straightforward sentence structures without errors that would impede communication.

Question

You received this email from your friend Marie:

Subject: Great news!

Hi! I have some big news to share: I've accepted a position in the United States! I'll be moving there soon to start my new job. It's a wonderful opportunity, but I have to admit I'm a bit stressed... I'm not sure how to organize everything yet. What do you think? Do you have any advice or information about housing, expatriates, the language, or administrative formalities?

See you soon,
Marie

Respond to Marie. Present your opinion to her by giving examples of diverse experiences.

Hi Marie,

Congratulations, that's amazing news! I can imagine you're both excited and a little overwhelmed, but don't worry, everything will fall into place.

Regarding housing, I'd suggest renting a furnished apartment for the first few months instead of committing to a long lease, since it gives you time to discover different neighborhoods. A friend of mine did this when she moved to Boston, and it really helped her settle in calmly.

As for the language, even though you already speak English well, joining a local conversation group could help you adapt to the accent and expressions faster.

Finally, for the administrative formalities, start early. My cousin, who moved to New York, told me the visa process took longer than expected.

You'll do great!

• Correct

+ ÉVALUÉ PAR IA

JUSTIFICATION DE
L'ÉVALUATION :

The candidate successfully addresses all required topics: housing (furnished apartment suggestion with friend's Boston example), language (conversation group advice), and administrative formalities (cousin's New York visa experience). The tone is friendly and supportive throughout. The response demonstrates B1-level English with clear, well-structured sentences, appropriate vocabulary, and good coherence. Examples from diverse experiences are effectively integrated. Minor observations: the response could have elaborated slightly more on expatriate-specific challenges, but overall meets the criteria comprehensively and appropriately for the B1 level.

Question : 4 (ENLE27305)

Question

A recent debate has taken place in your country or company concerning remote work. Some believe it improves work-life balance, while others fear isolation and the difficulty in separating work and personal life.

Write an essay of approximately 150 words intended for a magazine, blog, or internal newsletter to give your opinion on remote work. In this text, you will clearly present your position, presenting the main advantages and disadvantages of remote work. You will justify your opinion with specific arguments and you will briefly mention a different point of view.

You will conclude by proposing a recommendation or solution to optimize the implementation of remote work.

Be sure to write a structured and coherent text, using logical connectors and precise and varied vocabulary.

Today, many people talk about remote work and it is a very trendy topic in the business world. In my opinion, it is a good idea, but it also has some problems.

First, remote work has many advantages. People can organize their time better. For example, they do not need to travel to the office, so they save time. Also, they can spend more time with their family.

However, remote work has disadvantages too. Some people feel alone because they do not see their colleagues often. It is also difficult to stop working at the end of the day. Some people think office work is better because it helps communication.

In conclusion, I think remote work is good, but it needs balance. Companies should let employees choose two or three days at home and the other days at the office. This way, workers can be happy and productive.

+ ÉVALUÉ PAR IA

JUSTIFICATION DE L'ÉVALUATION :

While the essay demonstrates adequate B2 competence in structure and basic argumentation, it falls short of task requirements. The word count is approximately 150 words, significantly below the required 200-250 words. Although the candidate presents a clear position, advantages, disadvantages, and a recommendation, the arguments lack sufficient specificity and depth. The vocabulary is relatively simple and repetitive for B2 level. Logical connectors are present but underutilized. The mention of alternative viewpoints is minimal. The essay reads more like a B1+ response—competent but underdeveloped for the B2 standard expected for this task.

Question

Describe the digital tools you use most often on a daily basis (for example applications, social networks, websites, tools for work or studies). Explain how you use them and why they are important to you.

Votre enregistrement doit durer au minimum 40 secondes.

ENREGISTREMENT AUDIO

So mostly at work, I'm using the Microsoft Office Suite, it enables me to contact my colleagues that are working from home or my colleagues who are working in other countries. It's really important for me to use them to have access to information more effectively. But on my personal life, I mostly use social media to have news about my friends and also to have news about the world in general.

JUSTIFICATION DE
L'ÉVALUATION :

The candidate demonstrates B1-level competence with clear main ideas about digital tools usage in work and personal contexts. The response shows good understanding and ability to explain reasons. However, the answer lacks depth in describing specific applications and could include more detailed explanations of how tools are used. Minor grammatical issues and somewhat limited vocabulary prevent a higher score.

You live in Bordeaux and you want to enroll your 8-year-old child in a sports activity.

You read information about four clubs: Aquatic Club, Junior Tennis, Girondin Football and Modern Dance.

Your child is available on Wednesday afternoons and you are looking for an activity that costs less than 150 € per term. The activity must be accessible from age 8 and registration must be possible right now.

Read the descriptions and indicate "Yes" or "No" in the table below.

Aquatic Club  Located in a modern swimming pool, the Aquatic Club offers fun classes for children every Wednesday afternoon. The coaches are specially trained in gentle learning methods, and all equipment is provided. The fee is €140 per term, making it an affordable activity. However, registrations are currently closed; you will need to wait for the next session to join the classes.	Junior Tennis  Junior Tennis welcomes young racket enthusiasts in a friendly setting, with courts that have been recently renovated. Training sessions take place on Saturday mornings and are supervised by qualified instructors. The activity is reserved for children aged 10 and over and costs €120 per term. Registration is still open, subject to availability.
Girondin Football  Girondin Football offers two training sessions per week, on Wednesdays and Fridays, with coaches trained in official federation methods. The activity is designed for children aged 8 and over and allows them to progress quickly thanks to varied technical sessions. The fee is €180 per term, and registration is open for the current season.	Modern Dance  With an artistic and dynamic atmosphere, Modern Dance invites children to explore different contemporary choreographies. Classes take place on Wednesday afternoons and are available from age 6. The fee of €130 per term includes participation in end-of-year performances. Registration is still open, and a free trial session is offered.

ENREGISTREMENT AUDIO

I currently live in Montreal, so Montreal is a fascinating blend of European charm and North American vibe, strolling through whole Montreal, which is cobblestone street and ice-drake architecture, feel like stepping into another era while downtown buzzes with modern life. What I love most is the bilingual culture, French and English blend effortlessly, giving the city a unique identity, the food scene is exceptional, especially the bagels and poutine. However, winters are harsh and construction seems endless, still Montreal's festival art and welcoming atmosphere make it one of Canada's most vibrant cities to explore.

• Correct

+ ÉVALUÉ PAR IA

JUSTIFICATION DE L'ÉVALUATION :

The candidate demonstrates B1-level competence with good vocabulary and clear main ideas about Montreal. However, several grammatical errors and awkward constructions (e.g., 'ice-drake architecture,' 'construction seems endless,' missing articles) slightly impede clarity. The response shows understanding of the topic and expresses opinions effectively despite these issues.

ENLE02790

Question

To what extent are individual choices truly free in contemporary societies in the face of social, cultural and economic influences?

You will develop your answer in a structured manner, relying on the audio or the audio transcript, on specific examples, and by expressing a reasoned personal reflection.

Votre enregistrement doit durer au minimum 60 secondes.

ENREGISTREMENT AUDIO

So this is an interesting question. In my opinion, we are not completely free when we make choices because many things influence us. Firstly, society has a big impact on us. For example, advertising and social media shows us what we should buy or we should look. This makes us think we are choosing freely but really we are influenced by others. Also, our culture and family shape our choices. If we grew up in a certain culture, we often follow its traditions and values without really questioning them. Money is another important factor. People with more money have more choices in life. Life where to live or study, people with less money have fewer options. However, I think we still have some freedom. We can choose our friends, our hobbies, how we react to situations. In conclusion, I believe our choices are influenced by society, culture and money but we still have some personal freedom especially in small daily life decisions.

• Correct

+ ÉVALUÉ PAR IA

JUSTIFICATION DE L'ÉVALUATION :

The answer demonstrates solid understanding and addresses the question with relevant examples. However, several grammar errors and awkward constructions prevent it from reaching C1 level. The structure is clear but lacks the sophistication and precision expected at C1. The candidate shows good critical thinking but needs refinement in expression.

ENLE02789

Question

In your opinion, can online teaching completely replace in-person teaching, or should it remain complementary?

You will develop your answer in a structured manner, drawing on the audio or audio transcript, specific examples, and expressing reasoned personal reflection.

Votre enregistrement doit durer au minimum 60 secondes.

ENREGISTREMENT AUDIO

It's an important question. Today, in my opinion, online teaching cannot completely replace in-person teaching, but it can be a good addition. First, online teaching has many advantages. Students can study from home and they can choose their own schedule. This is very useful for people who work or live far from school. However, online teaching also has some problems. It is more difficult to ask questions and get help immediately. Also, students can feel isolated because they do not see their teacher or classmate in person. For some people, it's hard to stay motivated without a real classroom. So to conclude, I think online teaching is useful, but it should stay complementary. The best solution is to combine both online lessons of flexibility and in-person classes for real interaction.

• Correct

1/1

+ ÉVALUÉ PAR IA

JUSTIFICATION DE L'ÉVALUATION :

The candidate demonstrates solid B2-C1 level comprehension and expression. The answer is well-structured with clear arguments and personal reflection. However, it lacks the sophistication, nuance, and depth expected at C1 level. The vocabulary is accessible but somewhat repetitive, and the argumentation, while coherent, remains relatively straightforward without exploring implicit complexities from the audio.
